Rusk Is First Cuban Invasion Inquiry Witness

WASHINGTON (AP)—Cuba's military might—and whether it is on the rise—is the subject of a Senate investigation beginning today with Secretary of State Dean Rusk as the first witness.

Rusk is expected to back President Kennedy's contention that there has been no new military buildup on the Caribbean island.

But despite this assertion by the President at his news conference Thursday, several Republican senators remain skeptical. And despite his renewed assumption of responsibility for failure of the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, there is no slowing of a Republican drive for an independent investigation of the fiasco.

Kennedy said "the best information we have" from continued U.S. air surveillance and other intelligence is that one ship arrived in Cuba since the October crisis "which may have arms on it, possibly military cargo."

"But there has not been a military buildup in that sense of the equipment coming in from outside of Cuba," he said. "There is no evidence that this ship carried any offensive weapons."

Kennedy's appraisal of the state of Prime Minister Fidel Castro's arsenal contradicts reports Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and others say they have received. Their claim is that Castro has been getting additional weapons and is now militarily much stronger than he was six months ago.

These reports prompted Chairman Wayne Morse, D-Ore., to call Rusk and Central Intelligence Agency representatives before his Latin-American affairs subcommittee for closed-door testimony.

Wharf Workers May Return To Jobs Saturday

NEW YORK (AP)—Many striking longshoremen may return to work Saturday under terms of a settlement drawn up by the mediation board appointed by President Kennedy, a high union official says.

Dock workers are reported voting overwhelmingly in favor of the terms.

Walter A. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association, said he hopes to be able to withdraw pickets from the Port of New York waterfront today.

"We're going to give our men 24 hours to prepare to return to work after the vote is official from Maine to Texas," Sullivan said Thursday night.

"We are hopeful it will be Saturday, but it might be Monday before they are able to return to work."

Shipping Jammed

Disputes over local issues in some South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports are the major threat to a general return to work by the 60,000 longshoremen on the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts.

A union spokesman said here that local disputes in other ports would not delay a return to work by the Port of New York's 22,000 if a majority of the union's membership endorsed the settlement.

Even after the men return to work, it will take several days to break the jam of more than 650 ships that have been tied up on the two coasts.

Approval of the strike settlement was almost unanimous among union locals in ports from Maine to Virginia. The settlement in that area was approved last Sunday by negotiators for the union and the New York Shipping Association, which represents 145 shipping and stevedoring companies.

Loss 750 Million

The strike—longest and costliest Atlantic and Gulf Coast tieup in history—is in its 34th day. Estimates of the losses caused by the strike run over $750 million.

Incomplete returns show that longshoremen are voting about 16-to-1 in favor of the settlement, which includes a wage increase.

Sullivan said that members in some South Atlantic and Gulf Coast ports—including Miami and Mobile, Ala.—had not voted.

ILA President William V. Bradley was in Mobile Thursday night seeking to aid settlement of a local agreement.

The settlement formula drawn up by the presidential mediation board, headed by Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., includes a wage boost of 24 cents an hour and 13 cents in fringe benefits for a total of 37 cents an hour over a two-year period. Prestrike basic wages ranged from $2.96 to $3.02 an hour.

Freighter Brings 1,170 More Cuban Refugees To U.S.

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—An American freighter brought 1,170 more Cuban refugees through choppy seas today to refuge in the United States, and a free way of life that cost them all their material possessions.

The Shirley Lykes docked at Port Everglades, the port of Fort Lauderdale, bringing a human cargo back in the space which had been used to deliver ransom supplies to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in exchange for the Bay of Pigs captives.

Most of the Cubans, including 13 stretcher cases and seven paralytics, were relatives of the 1,113 invasion prisoners who were released last month.

A U.S. medical team and Red Cross personnel boarded the freighter soon after she docked, to help the sick and handle some cases of seasickness which developed during the crossing.

One of the reasons for the continuing flight from Cuba was poignantly expressed during the boarding in Havana harbor Thursday night.

"Thank God, thank God," cried an elderly woman as she fell to her knees on the freighter's deck. "No," said a member of the Cuban Red Cross standing at the top of the gangway, "Thank Fidel."

The refugees carried only small suitcases—enough to hold three changes of clothing—as they filed nervously past Cuban police checkpoints and boarded the 490-foot ransom ship bound for Port Everglades, Fla. The Fidel Castro regime made them forfeit the rest of their possessions.

The freighter sailed at 5:25 p. m.

with all lights out except her running lights. No explanation was given for the blackout. A rough overnight voyage faced the refugees as they headed into a sea churned by a stiff north wind.

The Shirley Lykes docked in Havana last Friday with more than 7,000 tons of food and medicines, another installment on the $53 million ransom exacted by Prime Minister Castro for the 1,113 Cuban invasion prisoners freed last month.

The American Red Cross had expected to take back 800 to 900 persons, but 1,170 showed up—390 men, 527 women and 253 children. All presumably were relatives of the released prisoners.

Pan American World Airways, which has flown 281 Cuban-Americans to Miami in the past two weeks, is expected to pick up about 100 more in Havana today. The Cuban-Americans are U.S. citizens of Cuban descent who have been living in Cuba for years or are children who were born there. They have no connection with the relatives of the invasion prisoners.

Many of the emigres aboard the Shirley Lykes were in urgent need of medical care. Thirteen were listed as stretcher cases. A doctor and four nurses, flown from Florida by the ed CRoss, were aboard to help the ill and handle expected seasickness.

So far two freighters and nearly 20 planes have brought about a third of the ransom cargo to Cuba. Red Cross officials said they hope a third ship can be obtained to deliver another cargo next month.

Killer Weather Shows Signs Of Letup In Europe

LONDON (AP)—Europe's killer winter, which already has taken more than 200 lives, showed signs of slackening its grip on parts of northern Europe.

The southern fringes of the continent still reeled under storms, blizzards and intense cold that left a fresh trail of floods, wreckage and death from the Atlantic to the Black Sea.

Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria and parts of the Soviet Union were hit as winter's fury concentrated on the south.

In Denmark, West Germany and Belgium, it was a little warmer. Britain, almost totally snowbound for more than a month, expected a slight thaw within 24 hours.

Britons continued to struggle with snow, ice, freezing fog, fuel shortages, cuts in electricity and gas, and thousands of burst water mains.

Authorities planned a 4,000-truck coal lift during the weekend to get fuel from pitheads to areas almost out of coal.

The death toll in Britain from the cold stood unofficially at more than 100. Yugoslavia reported 29 dead, Italy 24, West Germany 18, the Netherlands 20, Austria 6, Greece 3 and Turkey 3.

Fierce storms struck the coasts of Spain and Portugal. Two Spanish ships were in difficulty in storm-swept bays of southern Spain. Those aboard the ships were reported in no immediate danger.

Snow fell for the fourth straight day in parts of Italy's central Apennine Mountains. Some 300 communities are isolated.

Radio reports from Bulgaria indicated a major crisis as the country lay under more than three feet of snow.

Moscow radio reported the Soviet Black Sea republic of Moldavia was having its coldest winter in 60 years.

Long Ore Boat Locks Planned

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (AP)—The United States plans to complete a new 1,200-foot lock between Lakes Superior and Huron by 1967, a joint conference of Canadian and U.S. lake shipowners was told Thursday.

Col. Robert C. Pheil of the U.S. Army Engineers told the final conference session the lock's design has been enlarged at the suggestion of shipowners engaged in the iron ore trade.

The $40 million lock would be able to handle vessels 1,000 feet long, 100 feet in the beam and with a draft of 30 feet.

He said ships built to make use of this lock would be confined to the upper lakes. The St. Lawrence Seaway locks accommodate ships up to 730 feet in length, 75 feet in the beam and having a 25-foot draft.

Pheil said the U.S. government is spending $154 million to deepen and improve lake harbors "to bring the entire Great Lakes area into balance with the seaway." These improvements would result in reduced transportation costs and benefit the economy of the entire Great Lakes region.

Death Toll Rises In Winter Siege; Crops Threatened

By The Associated Press

Winter's longest and worst siege of cold weather clung to much of the nation today, causing a sharp rise in the death toll and threatening damage to crops in the Southland.

The huge cold air mass covered most of the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast. It knifed deep into the South, where lowest temperatures of the century were recorded in some areas Thursday.

There was promise of moderating temperatures in some sections of the hard-hit midcontinent.

But another stream of cold air headed from Canada into northern Midwest regions.

Travel Disrupted

The coldest weather, with readings ranging from zero to 16 below, extended from northern Tennessee northeastward into the Northeast in the upper Mississippi Valley, northern sections of the middle Mississippi Plains and in most of the northern Plains. Temperatures, generally, were not as low as Thursday morning, but were far below normal levels in many areas.

Since the outbreak of the current cold weather earlier this week at least 112 deaths have been reported from exposure, asphyxiation, over-exertion in snow, fires and in traffic accidents on ice-covered highways.

The bitter cold also has forced the closing of thousands of schools, the shutdown of some industrial plants and a slump in business. Travel by train, plane, bus and auto was disrupted.

Crops Ease Chill

Smudge pots were started in the citrus groves of Florida after forecasters predicted possible freezing weather. However, it appeared that the icy air would not extend into the rich Everglades farming area in the southern part of the state.

It was freezing again in northern sections of Florida, with 22 in Tallahassee and 27 in Jacksonville. Readings were zero to 5 above in Kentucky and Tennessee and 10 to 20 in most other parts of the Southeast except Florida where temperatures in the north were in the 20s and in the 40s and higher in southern sections.

In the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, a cloud cover was expected to give some protection for citrus trees and vegetables although temperatures from 26 to 34 were indicated.

Wrecked Bomber Sighted In Maine

KATAHDIN IRON WORKS, Maine (AP)—Flying game warden spotted the wreckage of a missing B52 bomber today and the Air Force said a man waved from one of three parachutes sighted on the ground in the general area.

The $8-million bomber, out of Westover Air Force Base, Mass., was carrying nine men.

The warden reported the aircraft was totally demolished.

They saw no signs of life at the wreckage site.

The plane was located a half-mile north of 2,600 foot Elephant Mountain—10 miles east of Greenville and about the same distance east of this remote village.

One parachute was seen on the mountain, another two miles south near Horseshoe Pond, the third on Blue Ridge, about 1½ miles from Elephant.

From which one the man was seen waving wasn't immediately determined.

A helicopter from Dow Air Force Base at Bangor was reported to have dropped a man at the wreckage.

Ground crews were struggling in subzero weather to get to the scene through snow five-feet deep.

Unofficially, the mercury sank to 30-below in this wild, heavily wooded area during the night.

The eight-jet bomber left Westover on a routine training flight at noon Thursday.

Kefauver Checks On Identical Bids For TVA Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Estes Kefauver said today rival electrical goods manufacturers seeking government business submitted bids identical to a hundredth of a cent and he intends to find out why.

Thus the Tennessee Democrat signaled a new inquiry by his Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee into pricing practices in the electrical equipment manufacturing industry.

The identical bids were submitted recently by manufacturers seeking contracts with the Tennessee Valley Authority, Kefauver said in a statement. He did not name the companies and hastened to add that identical bidding is not of itself proof of connivance to fix prices.

In 1960, 29 of the country's biggest electrical manufacturers and seven of their executives were fined or jailed on their conviction of rigging price bids in selling electrical goods to U.S. government agencies and others.

Kefauver's subcommittee subsequently held hearings on the price fixing practices.

Rep. Leonard Walton, D-Detroit was sworn into office Thursday when the House voted unanimously to accept a special committee's recommendation that he be seated with a "public censure" of Walton and his campaign committee for violations of state election laws.

In other action before the recess, the House sent to its rules and resolutions committee a proposal to postpone the legislative session until after April 1, when voters will pass on the proposed Constitution.

Rep. Edwin Fitzpatrick, D-Detroit, said Gov. George Romney's call for a regular session to end in April, with a special session after Labor Day, "would clearly thwart the Constitution."

Few House members appeared to take Fitzpatrick's suggestion very seriously, though some legislators have expressed the belief that little may be accomplished before the Constitution vote in April.

Walton was welcomed by House Speaker Allison Green and received brief applause by the House as he took his seat. He thanked House members and the committee, saying he thought they had "done a very fine thing."

Supervisors OK New Constitution

LANSING (AP)—Gov. George Romney was cheered today by the news that the State Association of Supervisors has voted to support the proposed New Michigan Constitution.

The vote was of real significance, Romney said, because the supervisors' group was a mong those which originally opposed the calling of a Constitutional Convention.

The governor said their reversal apparently stemmed in part from the provisions of the local government article of the document. Romney's contention is that the article would strengthen local government.

The governor made a personal appearance at the supervisors' Tuesday session to plead the case of the proposed document. He urged the delegates to approve it as an improvement over the present constitution.

Romney had made a similar plea the week before to the Michigan Township Association. But that organization decided to oppose the constitution.

The supervisors Thursday voted 172-42 in favor of the proposed document after hearing arguments for both sides and considering the board of directors' recommendation. The directors backed it, 8-2.

News Session Tells Need For Western Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy says evidence gathered through daily aerial scrutiny of Cuba fails to support reports of a massive new Soviet military buildup there.

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday that the 16,000 to 17,000 Soviets still on the island "are exercising, building some barracks."

And he said he knows of the arrival since the October crisis of only one Soviet ship that might have carried arms or other military cargo.

"There is no evidence that this ship carried any offensive weapons," he said.

Tax Cut Discussed

In a session laced with foreign policy talk, Kennedy focused on the need for Western unity. He said it was not in the interest of the alliance for France to base its desire for an independent nuclear force "on the grounds that the United States would fail to defend Europe by whatever means are necessary."

As for French President Charles de Gaulle, Kennedy said, "I would hope that our confidence in him would be matched by his confidence in us."

The prime domestic topic of Kennedy's news conference was his call for a three-year tax cut of $13.6 billion to be partly offset by $3.4 billion of revenue-raising changes in special tax benefits.

Kennedy strongly implied he wants a first-step rate cut of $3.2 billion to go into effect this year—even if Congress puts aside proposed benefit revisions until a later date.

"We will just have to wait and see whether both can be done this year," he said. "In any case, we should be able to make progress, come what may, on the first step of the three-stage reduction."

Why Invasion Failed

Even as he expounded policy that could affect the nation's future tax history, Kennedy tried to clarify a bit of past history: The cloudy story of "air cover" for the U.S.-backed Cuban invasion of April 1961.

This was prompted by challenges thrown at a weekend statement by the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, that no U.S. air cover ever was contemplated. This statement seemingly contradicted long-standing reports that the President canceled planned air cover.

Kennedy attributed the confusion to loose use of the phrase "air cover." He said his brother's statement was correct because the United States at no time planned to use its own planes to fly missions over the invasion beach.

But he said there was talk about an air strike by Cuban refugee pilots flying from bases outside the United States and that this "did not work out." He described this as "one of the failures" of the invasion.

Hope For Breakthrough

Other major topics touched on by Kennedy included:

Nuclear Tests — Khrushchev's recent acceptance of the principle of on-site inspection is "very important" and the possible forerunner of a breakthrough in nuclear test ban negotiations.

Meredith—If James Meredith withdraws from the University of Mississippi, "that is a loss not only to Mr. Meredith, but I think the university." Although curtailment of violence and protection of the Negro student cost the federal government $4 million, Kennedy said it "would have been far more expensive" had the Negro been physically attacked or denied admission by force.

Newspaper Strikes — Kennedy wishes for an early end to newspaper strikes in Cleveland and New York. In the case of the New York walkout, he hopes both sides will "reach the compromise which ultimately they are going to reach anyway."

IRKED BY DE GAULLE

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported today to have been deeply irritated by the accusation made by President Charles de Gaulle of France that the United States cannot be depended upon to defend Western Europe with nuclear weapons.

New Novel Rate High As Stories

By MARY CROTEAU
Escanaba City Librarian

Do you like a novel with a good story?

Many people complain that modern fiction has lost the plot in a fog of psychology or in a multitude of characters glimpsed and forgotten before they are seen again. For these readers, there are a few recently published novels to suggest which can stand comparison with some of the great story-novels of the past, such as "Anthony Adverse," "Gone With the Wind," "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," "For Whom the Bell Tolls," "The Caine Mutiny" and "Rebecca."

A recent favorite of persons who like a good suspenseful plot along with a smooth narrative style and good characterization is novelist Mary Stewart, whose 1961 book "The Ivy Tree" has been in constant demand at the library, along with her earlier novels, "My Brother Michael" and "Nine Coaches Waiting." Her new romantic adventure, "The Moon-Spinners," will be published this month. Some of the reviewers compare her in plot and atmosphere with Daphne DuMaurier.

A novel along the lines of "Rebecca" which has received accolades is Victoria Holt's "Mistress of Mellyn." Her most recent book, "Kirkland Revels," is in a similar vein of atmosphere, suspense, and romance which also carries, according to one reviewer, "the freshness of a 20th century improvisation."

Among the authors of the classic story-novels mentioned earlier, Daphne DuMaurier and Herman Wouk have written novels during the past year. The DuMaurier novel is a collaboration and completion job on a work of Quiller-Couch called "Castle D'or," which one reviewer has called "an original and beguiling entertainment." Wouk, in his "Youngblood Hawke," has produced a real story with a plot in following the fortunes of a young best-selling novelist from the South.

A longtime good story-teller, J. B. Priestley, who many will remember for "The Good Companions" and "Angel Pavement," has produced a tense story of pursuit, "The Shapes of Sleep." The pursuit theme calls to mind probably the best pursuit tale of modern time, "Rogue Male," by Geoffrey Household.

All these rousing good tales, new and old, are yours for the asking at your Escanaba Public Library.

Wisconsin Crime Network Exposed

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds has charged that a "network of organized crime" has been uncovered in Milwaukee, Kenosha and Fond du Lac counties.

Reynolds said that the crime ring was disclosed in the three areas, including the cities of Milwaukee and Kenosha, in investigations he ordered as attorney general.

Officials in the three counties promptly took issue with the new Democratic governor elected last November. They denied any knowledge of organized crime.

Reynolds said that a John Doe investigation he ordered last May to probe possible crime activity in the Milwaukee area has been "politically embarrassing" to Milwaukee officials and "interpreted as an affront even though that was not the intent."

Warrants Expected

The governor accused Milwaukee officials of "selling the people a bill of goods" in "saying for years that they had the cleanest city in the world." The John Doe investigation is continuing and warrants are expected to be issued soon.

Reynolds commented after a Chicago Tribune story written by Sandy Smith under a Madison dateline quoted investigators for the governor and Atty. Gen. George Thompson as saying the state probe of organized crime has disclosed:

"1. A shakedown racket by mobsters in Milwaukee. Since last November, the gangsters have been extorting, or attempting to extort, monthly payoffs from gamblers, vice racketeers, night club owners and juke box operators in Milwaukee and Kenosha counties.

"2. An effort by Milwaukee hoodlums to 'line up'—or consolidate under mob control—all rackets in Milwaukee and Kenosha counties. Previously, in both counties, some gamblers and racketeers functioned as independent operators, unmoored and untaxed by the Milwaukee gang.

"3. An invasion of the cheese industry in Fond du Lac County by gangsters who maintain connections with crime syndicates across the nation."

Smith, who met with Reynolds and other officials in the state on a visit last week, wrote: "The rise in organized crime in Wisconsin has been accompanied by a series of gang-style murders which began in 1954. All the slayings, in which five men died, are unsolved."

In Milwaukee, Mayor Henry Maier, Police Chief Howard Johnson and Dist. Atty. William McCauley denied the existence of organized crime in the area.

Centennial Fund Support Pledged

Business and industry of the Escanaba community, rallying to support the Escanaba Centennial Fund and a celebration marking the city's 100 years of progress, have so far pledged $2,800. It is reported by Harold Cloutier, Centennial activities director.

"The more generous the support the more successful the program will be," said Cloutier. "While there is no minimum placed on pledges — any amount will be most welcome — some of the business firms of the community are going all-out to help finance the celebration."

Air shows, a parade, publication of an Escanaba Century Book, a centennial ball, a centennial queen contest and many other activities and projects are being arranged. Hundreds of volunteers are at work in planning the program which will reach its climax during the July 4 week.

Program Endorse

Cloutier said that enthusiasm is growing and that Escanaba, with its tradition of getting things done in an outstanding way, is expected to have certain features unique in Centennial celebrations anywhere.

Inquest Feb. 7 In Blast Deaths Of 4 At Soo, Ont.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (AP)—An inquest into the deaths of four Algoma steel Corp. employees who were killed in a coke oven explosion Wednesday has been set for Feb. 7.

Meanwhile, a company investigation into the cause of the explosion has been started.

A company spokesman said preliminary investigations indicate the explosion was caused by some "external" factor, not by normal operating methods.

The blast occurred in the section of the plant where batteries of coke ovens heat coal to about 2,000 degrees to make coke, gas and several by-products.

Charles J. Wolfe, 48, Charles E. Gooderham, 60, and Henry Crawford, 50, were killed in the blast. Steve Tarasuk, 36, died later in a hospital.

Unemployment In U. P. Shows Drop

EAST LANSING — Michigan unemployment was below the national level again in November, reports the Michigan State University. The 141,000 Michigan unemployed constituted 4.9 per cent of the state labor force as compared with 5.3 per cent unemployed in the nation.

Among the 14 selected labor market areas reported on by the MSU, Flint again had the lowest unemployment rate. Only 2.2 per cent of the Flint labor force was idle.

The Upper Peninsula once again had the highest unemployment rate with 9.3 per cent jobless in November. The October rate was 6.4 per cent. A year ago, November 1961, the Upper Peninsula unemployment rate was 11.8 per cent.

Brenda Lee And Gobel Headliner Prospects Of Fair

The Upper Peninsula State Fair in Escanaba, whose operating budget has slipped from $135,000 to $105,000 in recent years under state austerity, is planning a fine program nonetheless for the 1963 Fair, says Manager Ray LaPorte upon return from the annual convention of the Michigan Association of Fairs in Detroit.

The meeting turns plans into contracts for fair programs and Upper Peninsula fairs will probably be seeing famed young song belter Brenda Lee, and Casuals combo, and George Gobel as headliners on the grandstand show. The U. P. Fair will be Aug. 13-18.

LaPorte said that hold orders on Brenda Lee and The Casuals have been arranged until Feb. 9 to permit full U. P. Fair Board action on contracts. "We'd like to get George Gobel for Governor's Day (Aug. 15)," said LaPorte "but it hasn't been decided definitely. The agents are dickering and if the price is right he'll be here."

Brenda Lee was a U. P. Fair headliner in 1961 and The Casuals have appeared with her and with Johnny Tillotson here, featuring their vocalist Bobby Beckham.

The Casuals will play for a teen age dance after the show at the fair.

LaPorte, who attended the Fairs Association convention with Board Members Earl Allingham of Escanaba and Kemp Brown of Munising, said the midway will have the Sky Wheel again this year and probably Mad Mouse, a high roller roller-coaster-like ride.

One of the major considerations before the U. P. Fair Board for the future is whether to end the free gate and charge admission. The Allegan, Mich., Fair has done this successfully and it seems to be a developing trend. The U. P. Fair charges a 50 cent car parking fee, no admission. If it went to admission it might, based on other fairs' practice, be $1 for adults, 50 cents for children, and 50 cents for car parking.

The gate admission plan means that all the fair except the rides are open without extra charge. The grandstand show would then be "free." There will be no switch in admission policy this year, said LaPorte.

He has been named first vice president of the Michigan Fairs Association, which means progression will make him president next year, the second top executive of the 85-year-old group. William Kell of Wilson was president.

LaPorte said that TV stars keep their strong appeal for young people at fairs. "Oldsters aren't so shook," said LaPorte. Thrill shows are still headliners, and the Danny Fleenor Show, which has appeared at the U. P. Fair will be a 10-day headliner at the Tampa, Fla., Fair starting soon.

The U. P. has been losing farms but the agricultural features of the fair continue strong, said LaPorte. Premiums have gone up from $20,000 to nearly $25,000 and the 4-H facilities are more crowded each year and such exhibits have had to be curtailed. Advance registration of dairy and beef cattle has been necessary to keep the exhibits within housing limits.

There are now 86 fairs of various characters in Michigan, of which five are in the Upper Peninsula: the Allenville Fair in Mackinac County, the Dickinson County Fair at Norway, the Iron County Fair at Iron River, the Gogebic County Fair at Ironwood and the Upper Peninsula State Fair.

New Mexico U. Engineering Prof Heads Tech Dept.

HOUGHTON—Dr. George A. Young of Albuquerque, N. M., has been appointed professor and head of the Department of Civil Engineering at the Michigan Tech effective June 1.

A native of Illinois, Dr. Young holds three degrees from the University of Illinois. He is now professor of civil engineering at the University of New Mexico.

Dr. Young served in the U. S. Navy from 1942 until 1946, where he attained the rank of lieutenant and was assigned to overseas construction duty. Following his release from the Navy he joined the Harza Engineering Co. of Chicago, working as a design engineer in foundations, structures and hydraulic systems.

In 1948 he became a member of the teaching faculty at the University of Illinois, but spent several summers with the Harza Co., including assignments as a field engineer in El Salvador and Iraq.

Dr. Young is married to the former Josephine Mary Swed of Chicago and they have four children.

The earnings in 1961 were $8,639,000, or $3.37 per share. Sales and operating revenues for 1962 amounted to $68,750,000, compared with $71,684,000 in 1961.

Dog Commanded By Walkie-Talkie

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Mucho is a dog of the electronic age. He can take his commands (and obey them) from a walkie-talkie on his harness.

It was obvious today that Mucho, with the antenna sticking up from his side, loved this electronic business.

"He knows he's pleasing—he knows it," Pvt. Eugene Yaokum of the Alexandria Police Department said.

Yaokum put Mucho through his places, standing about 40 feet away, and giving the commands into a walkie talkie in his hand. The receiving set and antenna were attached to the harness of the big black and tan German shepherd.

"Down," Yaokum said into the walkie-talkie. Mucho's ears pricked up, and down the dog went. The dog came, sat and bounded away, all at commands heard on his radio, and he performed with gusto.

It started last summer. Mucho, almost 4, had been in the Police K-9 Corps a little over two years. He rode often on the back seat of a patrol car with Yaokum, his master, and Sgt. Cecil Kesler.

The two policemen noticed that when their car, K-9-1, was called on the police radio, Mucho got all excited, but didn't pay any attention when he heard the noise of other cars being called.

The policemen thought perhaps Mucho noticed when they leaned over to pick up the receiver when their car was called. They arranged with the dispatcher to call them, and they just sat there without noticing.

But in the back seat, Mucho jumped when he heard "K-9-1," stood up and jumped up and down, raring to go—his car had been called.

Yaokum then started working with Mucho and a walkie talkie in his spare time.

"It's something we're playing around with—never used it on a job," Yaokum said. "We didn't know such a fuss would be raised about it. I think we'll perfect it now."

Only Industry At Yale Closes

YALE (AP)—Yale Woolen Mills, the only industry in this eastern Michigan community, has closed down, ending 300 jobs and an annual payroll of $1 million.

The announcement Wednesday by the firm appeared to mean this community of 1,600 residents will return to what it was before the mills were founded in 1881—a farming community.

"We did a lot of soul-searching before deciding we simply had to close down," said Robert E. Andrae, secretary-treasurer of the firm. "The bottom's been dropping out of the wool and textile industry for years."

Col. Handy Moved

Lt. Col. Paul Handy, long-time assistant deputy commander for maintenance for the 4042d Strategic Wing (SAC) and more recently commander of the 326th Bombardment Squadron at K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, head maintenance post at Wright-Patterson AFB, Ohio, Feb. 1.

U.P. Loses 113 Dairy Farms In '62

Dr. G. Malcolm Trout, East Lansing, professor of dairy food science, Michigan State University, was the featured speaker Wednesday at the Upper Peninsula Dairy Manufacturers' Association 29th annual convention.

Dr. Trout told the 160 representatives of Upper Peninsula dairy plants and dairy sales forces that dairy men too often take milk for granted. He noted, in his speech, "Selling Dairy Products," that milk is "nature's most nearly perfect food."

An authority in dairy products, Trout said that dry milk from the United States surplus is raising standards of living and making friends for the U. S. in poverty-stricken countries.

William Jilbert, Jilbert Dairy, Calumet, was re-elected president of the association. Roy Fassbender, Brancroft Dairy, Inc., Marquette, was re-elected vice president, and Reginald Turner, Soo Creamery, Sault Ste. Marie, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Only owners of property on the tax rolls in the school district may vote legally in the Feb. 18 school bonding election. The school district is composed of Escanaba city and the townships of Wells, Ford River and Cornell.

'Indian Love Call' Composer Dies

Otto A. Harbach

NEW YORK (AP) — Otto A. Harbach, 89, author of such well-known songs as "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes," "Indian Love Call," and "Cuddle Up A Little Closer," died Thursday at his home after a long illness.

Harbach was recognized as the dean of American librettists and was a world famous playwright and lyricist.

His other songs included "Goin' With You," "One Alone," "Rose Marie" and "Love Nest."

He was born in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Harbach was credited with more than a thousand songs.

While a youth in advertising, he wrote a musical, "Three Twins," which established him as a writer for the stage.

His other shows in which he had a part include "The Firefly," "Mary," "Kid Boots," "No, No Nanette," "Rose Marie," "Sunny," "Desert Song," "Roberta," and "Up in Mabel's Room."

Harbach was a charter member of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers ASCAP and its president from 1950-53. He had been a director of ASCAP since 1920 and had served three terms as vice president.

His collaborators included Jerome Kern, who wrote the music for "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" while Harbach penned the words.

Teachers' Pay Bill In Senate

LANSING (AP) — A minimum annual pay of $4,500 a year for public school teachers was proposed Thursday in a bill filed for introduction in the Senate.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Philip Rahoi, D-Iron Mountain, sets a floor of $4,500 for every teacher during the first school year employed, with automatic increases of $50 per year for a period of not less than five years.

Teachers holding bachelors, masters, or doctors degrees would begin at a minimum of $4,800 a year, with higher steps-up to be paid for not less than 10 years.

Any school district unable to pay the minimums due to a lack of funds could be allowed to pay less—under certain conditions—on application to the State Board of Education.

Other speakers were F. M. Skiver, Lansing, Bureau of Dairying, Michigan Department of Agriculture; Donald L. Murray, East Lansing extension dairyman, Michigan State University; Dr. Charles Stine, East Lansing, Department of Food Service, MSU.

Directors of the association are Bert Jeske, Rudyard; Walter E. Unger, Iron Mountain; Roy Fassbender, Marquette, Edward Czapiga, Iron River; William Jilbert, Calumet; Dominic Frigo, Carney; Vaughn Kuster, Bessemer; Egbert Talsma, Sault Ste. Marie, and Eino Juntunen, Dollar Bay.

Auto Production Has Slight Gain

DETROIT (AP) — Automotive News estimates scheduled passenger car production this week at 156,175 cars, up slightly from last week.

However, extreme cold resulted in some assembly plant shutdowns Thursday and could reduce the week's total output. Ford closed its plants at Wixom, Mich., Mahwah, N. J., and Louisville and Chrysler shut down its Jefferson Avenue plant in Detroit.

Automotive News said 154,811 cars were assembled last week and 141,489 in the comparable week of 1962.

Kincheloe AFB Pipeline Ready

ST. IGNACE—The Northern Michigan Pipe Line Company expects to open its newly constructed pipeline between St. Ignace and the Kincheloe AFB within the next few days.

A company spokesman said that the line had been tested. Still remaining to be done is the cleaning of the line before an estimated flow of 700 barrels of jet-fuel an hour is underway.

Two pumping stations have been built at St. Ignace. They are equipped with two 500 hp. motors which will be used to regulate the movement of the flow through the line. Also at the Northwestern Terminal Company here and at the Kincheloe AFB temperature controlled meters have been installed to measure the fuel.

It was reported that the fuel in smaller quantities will still be transported by the railroad and by tank truck to Kincheloe.

Money And Morals

President Kennedy campaigned for office on a Democratic platform which held that tax reduction might be possible after—not before—economic prosperity had been achieved. No one now at liberty is suggesting that economic prosperity of the kind then in mind has been achieved but we're to get a tax cut anyway, proposed by President Kennedy.

"Vot happened?" as the accident victim said.

President Kennedy has switched his field, as the football fellows say. His proposal for a tax cut to stimulate business is being hailed as one of the neatest political switches in American politics. He has, without ascribing any credit for origins, adopted the long time Republican economic theory that economic growth can be spurred and depressions avoided better by reducing the tax burden than by huge federal spending on welfare and make-work.

As remarkable as President Kennedy's switch of economic stance is the lack of Democratic criticism of his change. The Democrats may not believe in it, but they're keeping mum if they don't.

To support his proposal to Congress for income tax cuts, Mr. Kennedy said "the checkrein on private spending and productive incentives must be loosened if our economy is to perform at maximum efficiency."

This is a desertion of Democratic tax and spend orthodoxy and a direct swipe of the 1960 Republican platform suggestion: "The only effective way to accelerate growth is to increase the traditional strengths of our free economy—initiative and investment, productivity and efficiency." The GOP platform called for "broadly based tax reform to foster job-making and growth making investment."

The Democratic platform proposed public works spending and "temporary" tax cuts to counter recessionary trends. It endorsed tax reforms and balanced budgets but warned that even higher taxes might be necessary to guard the nation's wellbeing.

The Republicans in the first years of the Eisenhower administration used the "cut taxes to stimulate business" argument to push through Congress the biggest tax reduction in history. Democrats opposed the idea then and since because business got most of the reduction. Yet President Kennedy proposes that corporate income taxes be cut $2.5 billion, after a $2.5 billion saving by business last year in tax rebates on new plant and modernization depreciation speed-up.

Even so Mr. Kennedy has presented a record budget of $98.9 billion and an $11.9 billion deficit that should appease even big spending advocates.

In a historic switch of accent Republican businessmen who urged tax reduction are now urging government fiscal responsibility. A tax cut balanced with a deficit isn't apt to buy anything but trouble.

David E. Smucker, president of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad Co., Dearborn, says in Michigan Challenge: "A White House sycophant of the New Deal era once forecast perpetuation of its power in these cynical words, 'We will spend and spend—tax and tax—elect and elect.'" New Frontiersmen have lately compounded a new magic elixir—the secret of eternal youth and power—"Spend and elect but don't tax!"

"We have given government the right to go into debt and to operate at a deficit once in a while. The results are a federal debt of $300 billion, a statutory debt limit which has become absolutely meaningless, an outflow of gold keyed directly to what holders of our exchange think about our capacity for self-discipline. This is not the right time to remove fiscal restraint from government. This is the time for exactly the opposite attitude. Certain business interests should not be lured away from the precepts upon which sound and lasting economic growth is founded."

White Collar Cuts

"Bureaucracy" is an epithet usually reserves for talking about the government.

Lately, however, many businessmen have become aware that the word, with all its ramifications of inefficiency and waste and red tape, is a pretty fair description of the present state of many American companies.

Almost imperceptibly over recent years, while attention has been focused on increasing the productivity of blue collar personnel, the number of white collar workers has crept upward, resulting in top-heavy corporate bureaucracies.

The Wall Street Journal reports that since 1947, the number of white collar workers employed by manufacturers has climbed over 65 per cent, while over the same period total production force has shrunk by 7 per cent. In 1947, white collar payrolls were 25 per cent of the total manufacturing payroll; they now constitute 35 per cent.

To remedy the situation, management is clearing out the dead wood.

Most famous example is the belt-tightening operation carried out by Chrysler Corp. in 1961. Nearly 20 per cent of its 36,000 white collar employees were fired. This, along with other economy measures, lowered the company's break-even point on sales from a million cars and trucks to 750,000.

The process is being repeated in many other concerns, though not usually so drastically. The American Management Assn. has launched a program to aid companies to eliminate white collar inefficiency. Some 200 firms are participating by exchanging information on the number of people they employ in various categories.

This minor revolution in business is facilitated by the absence of unionism among white collar workers. Heretofore, while sharing in financial gains won by the unions, white collar workers have been considered part of management and have generally been immune to layoffs. This has long thwarted the AFL-CIO's announced goal of proselyting in white collar pastures.

The thorniest issue in the labor field today is the attempt by companies to eliminate no longer needed workers. Strife in the steel industry, on the railroads and currently in the maritime industry reflects blue collar resistance to this.

It remains to be seen whether the same process in the area of management will lead to any significant movement toward collective bargaining among white collar people.

Gore Underground

It used to be that when the Democrats and Republicans put on their fancy fund-raising dinners, they printed a "dinner list" you could have some fun with. Scanning it for the names of highpowered lobbyists often was most instructive.

Lately, however, party dinner lists have been harder to get hold of than Pentagon plans for the defense of SAC headquarters.

Party officials try to make the secrecy sound plausible. For example, Democrats getting ready for a big money-raising show in mid-January say they won't put out a list because it might hurt the feelings of worthy contributors who aren't

Red---But Not Dead

Edson In Washington Letters To The Press

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— You have to carry your checkbook to the ready if you want to stand in well on the New Frontier.

The philosophy of "ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country" has been carried to extremes. If you don't volunteer, you are invited.

Washington is pretty agog now over two parties celebrating the second anniversary of President Kennedy's inaugural while Democratic leaders were in town to plan 1964 strategy.

First, a $1,000-a-plate dinner at the new International Inn. The 600 or more big fish attending this affair got favors of a free ticket to a $100-a-seat gala which followed at the National Guard armory, without food, for maybe 5,000 little fish.

The party could gross maybe a million dollars toward reducing the National Council debt.

No printed guest lists were available for either affair to identify the suckers. This trick was used extensively by the Republicans during the Eisenhower administration, but the GOP holds no copyright on it and both parties use every strong-arm method they can think of to raise political funds.

Washington newsmen have received many anonymous phone call protests on this in recent days. Most have come from career civil servants in the upper grades, complaining they have been pressured to buy tickets to the $100-a-seat gala.

The callers can't reveal their identity for fear of political reprisal. The implied threat is that if they don't contribute, they won't get that promotion or might be downgraded.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., has demanded an investigation of newspaper charges that government workers were told to buy tickets $10 down and $10 a month if they couldn't pay cash.

On a smaller scale, this is characteristic of the zeal and ingenuity shown in raising the $55.9 million in ransom food, drugs and cash to get the Bay of Pigs prisoners released from Castro cells. The ransom was not solicited directly by the government or the administration. The touch was made by New York attorney James Donovan to food and drug trade associations and gifts were made to the Red Cross.

But before anything was given, there was full clearance by Departments of State, Justice and Treasury that there would be no prosecution for it under antitrust, tax or food and drug laws.

So private industries that really had the heat put on them during consideration of new food and drug legislation last year forgave and forgot and pulled the administration's chestnuts out of the fire for its Bay of Pigs fiasco.

Red Cross is now making public the names of donors, and the amounts of their contributions. A dozen firms contributed over a million dollars each:

Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, $2,342,787; Merck & Co., New York, $2,501,640; Upjohn Co., Kalamazoo, $1,507,041; Warner Lambert, Morris Plains, N. J., $1,500,000; Bristol Myers, $1,003,404; Sterling Drugs, Inc. and subsidiaries, $1,407,076; Abbott Laboratories, North Chicago, $1,000,000; Charles Pfizer & Co., New York, $1,500,000; Hoffman-La Roche, Nutley, N. J., $1,131,841; McKesson-Robbins, Bridgeport, $1,398,301; H. J. Heinz, Pittsburgh, $1,000,000; Wyeth Laboratories, Radnor, Pa., $1,491,601.

In addition, Gen. Lucius D. Clay signed a personal note for $1.9 million before going out and raising that amount in cash for the final ransom payment. And Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy raised another million by a phone call to Richard Cardinal Cushing of Boston.

The Kennedy touch is not confined to political fund raising. In the interests of Washington's $30 million Cultural Center, the First Family took a prominent part in the "Pageant of the Arts" which raised $355,000 from a $100-a-plate dinner and a closed circuit telecast of the entertainment to 60 cities.

In all fairness, it must be recognized that the President turns his salary over to charity, that the Kennedy Foundation is doing extensive research on mental retardation and that the First Lady turns over to charity most of the gifts sent to her and her family as gestures of sincere admiration.

Alcohol Cannot Warm You; May Drop Temperature

CHICAGO — Alcohol cannot warm you up. In fact, it may cause body temperature to drop.

That's one of the cold scientific facts pointed out in an article on liquor in the February Today's Health magazine, published by the American Medical Association.

"The false sensation of warmth is produced by the fact that alcohol diverts body heat to the face and skin, causing the drinker to flush, and perhaps even to perspire," the article said. "Below the skin surfaces, however, he's just as cold or colder than before he had a drink."

The article also straightened out the facts on liquor and longevity.

Extensive studies, conducted by the Yale Center of Alcohol Studies, show that alcoholics and those who drink immoderately have appreciably shorter life expectancies, it said. However, it said, the studies show that moderate drinkers live just as long but no longer than abstainers.

Several studies regarding personality aspects of drinking, were cited in the article.

British psychologists have shown conclusively that a given amount of alcohol has appreciably more effect on extroverts than introverts, the article said. These researchers found that extroverts were far more likely to have their physical coordination and mental reflexes impaired by drinking, even when comparatively moderate amounts were taken, it said.

Studies at Washington University involving 780 men and women showed that the personality of the drinker tends to differ from that of the abstainer, the article continued.

Drinkers were found to be more selfish and materialistic than the teetotalers, it said. They were also more tolerant, more affectionate, and more impulsive, it said. On the other hand, it said, drinkers tended to be moodier, less optimistic and more subject to boredom and restlessness.

Another study by Dr. Edith Liskansky of Yale University indicates that a drink does not always lift one's spirits, the article said.

"Alcohol may affect the same person quite differently at different times," according to Dr. Liskansky. "Under some circumstances, taking a drink wards off depression and anger; under other conditions, it may increase such feelings."

Pan Fish Limit Fought By State

MADISON, Wis. — The "no bag limit" policy on pan fish in Wisconsin has been reaffirmed again by the Wisconsin Conservation Department.

Speaking to the Fish Regulations Study Committee of the Conservation Congress in Hayward, fisheries expert C. W. Threinen, Madison, and Clarence Wistrom, Spooner, both stated that a return to pan fish bag limits would hurt fishing in Wisconsin.

The department's statement was prompted by a move in northwestern Wisconsin aimed at returning to a bag limit of 25.

The statement pointed out that one of the most bothersome fisheries problem in Wisconsin today is the super abundance of pan fish that never grow beyond minnow size because of competition for food and space.

"These teeming billions need to be removed from our waters and if they provide sport and recreation unaccompanied by waste, all fishermen benefit," Threinen said.

The department's statement pointed out that pan fish are usually 100 times more abundant than game fish. Using this as a guide, if the bag limit were five on game fish, it should then be 500 on pan fish — the same as no bag limit at all.

Official records show that very few anglers ever catch as many as 100 fish. The department recommends that fishermen willing to spend the time and effort to make big catches be encouraged because of the important contribution they make to good management through helping establish balanced populations.

The Conservation Department annually spends about $50,000 to remove stunted pan fish from Wisconsin waters and this figure is expected to increase in the future as more and more communities demand chemical treatment to improve local fishing. Commercial fishing for some pan fish species has been allowed on certain waters to control overpopulation.

Fish Management Superintendent Dr. Edward Schneberger said the outcry for a return to bag limits is based on issues that have nothing directly to do with the fishery.

Schneberger said the problem of waste is a different and separate matter. He pointed out that the statutes make it unlawful to "unreasonably waste, destroy or impair any natural resource" and provide for fines of up to $50 for a first offense and up to $200 for a second.

He said that while heavy cropping of pan fish helps balance populations, greediness by some

Season To Spear Sturgeon Near

CHEBOYGAN (AP) — February is the banner month of the year for a group of hardy and hopeful ice fishermen who will flock to three lakes in the northern tip of the Lower Peninsula.

There they will try for a fish that often runs a hundred pounds or more, sometimes reaches an age of 100 and belongs to a species that probably existed 50 million years ago.

This improbable-sounding monster is the lake sturgeon, speared through the ice of three inland lakes—Black, Burt and Mullett lakes in Cheboygan County, just south of the Straits.

The record for a sturgeon taken from these inland lakes was a 175-pounder measuring 86 inches in length speared from Mullett Lake in 1955.

A 212-pounder was taken from Lake Michigan in a net. A sturgeon 312 pounds in weight drifted up on a Lake Michigan beach, apparently killed by a boat propeller.

The sport of spearing the fish, becoming increasingly popular, is all but confined to the Cheboygan-Indian River chain of lakes. A few sturgeon occasionally wander up connecting streams to other lakes in Michigan.

The fish look like the primitive left-overs that they are. They have shark-like tails, a body covered with hard, bony plates and long rubbery snouts with feelers attached to them. The fish are bottom feeders and suck up food like a vacuum cleaner.

The dedicated sturgeon fishermen who live in the area have the most success. They will be out in the shanties, waiting with spears poised, nearly all day every day.

During 1956, there were 70 sturgeon taken from all three lakes and it took an average of 140 hours to catch one fish. There were only 25 fish taken from the three lakes in 1958 and the average wait was 260 hours per fish.

But you can still count more than 200 shanties on each of these three lakes during the average day of the month-long season.

For those who want to try their luck, the heated shanties can be rented. The equipment is fairly simple, a five or seven-pronged, lead-weighted fish spear weighing around 20 pounds and an unlimited supply of patience.

Northwest Research May Double Wood Production

By ELLIOT MARPLE

In The Christian Science Monitor

SEATTLE — The prospect of a bright and expanding future for the western forest industry has been opened by science and research in forests and laboratories.

From two recent events come clear signs of the direction this industry, so basic to the economy of the West, is moving. One was the first open house that the Weyerhaeuser Co., has held at its Forestry Research Center at Centralia, Wash. The second was the three-day Western Forestry Council sponsored at Seattle by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association, whose headquarters are Portland. This latter event drew more than 600 men and women for the association's first conference ever devoted solely to research.

At Centralia, Weyerhaeuser has concentrated those research activities which are directed at tree growth and how to make the land more productive.

Accent On Genetics

One of Weyerhaeuser's strongest efforts is in genetics — selecting the hardiest, sturdiest trees and breeding them in order to obtain a forest crop that grows faster, matures earlier, has better quality, and is more resistant to insects, diseases, and other hazards.

Weyerhaeuser scientists select lush, green twigs chosen from the finest forest trees and graft these to young orchard stock for cross-pollination. The cross-bred stock is tested, and the selection and breeding continues.

"Seed is going to make or break forestry," Dr. George S. Allen, director of Weyerhaeuser's forest research center, observes. At present cutover lands are now restocked with wild seed. But scientists are certain they can help nature produce a better crop.

Plan Outlined

As pedigreed seed becomes available, this will be planted in nurseries, and then young trees will be transplanted into commercial forest lands, Dr. Allen notes. While the cost of transplanting is higher than by spreading seed with a helicopter, hand transplants will make the limited supply of superior seed go further and also it will get the land back into production sooner.

Other studies are directed at special phases of forest growth. Soils are analyzed to determine which nutrients bring best growth and hence what fertilizers may be needed. Weyerhaeuser is making soil maps of each of its tree farms to show the soil type and contours of slopes. This information, correlated with laboratory and field research, will make it possible to indicate which species and which strains should be planted at any given location.

Effect Measured

The effect of various nutrients can be determined by measuring growth of a forest tree. But this is slow. As a shortcut, Weyerhaeuser scientists bring a seedling into the laboratory at Centralia, place it in an airtight container, and then measure the changes in the air as the tree "breathes" in response to light that stimulates the sun.

In a matter of only minutes, the rate of respiration can be determined and hence the rate of growth of the future tree. This can indicate at once whether a new strain shows promise.

Experimental plots in the forest also are used in tests. In the restocking of the famous Yacolt forest-fire burn, 20 quarter-acre plots of young trees were established in 1955 to study the effect of fertilizer in the production of seed cones.

Binge Of Chaos Could Be Result Of Disarmament

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States can count on a happy binge of economic chaos if world diplomats ever agree to disarmament.

It would be joyful because of the age-old great hope that by junking armies and weapons under some effective control system mankind could be spared the scourge of war.

It would be chaotic because, whether disarmament came overnight or gradually, whether completely or piecemeal, it would be tremendously disruptive to the nation's economy.

The federal government, states and communities, industry and labor all would have to pull together in a concerted drive to adjust to the vast changes involved in abandoning production for war. This would be necessary to avoid plunging the country into a full-scale depression.

Would Be Cheaper

Yet, difficult and costly as the switchover would be, the experts say it could be managed and become a blessing. According to one official, "Whatever the cost it's bound to be cheaper" than the arms race.

Consider the effect on your own community and the nation as a whole. The federal government spends about $100 billion a year, half of which goes to defense-related activities. They swallow up a tenth of the nation's annual wealth. They provide jobs for one tenth of all workers.

With disarmament, production would be stopped or vastly cut on missiles, planes, tanks, guns, warships and the whole array of war-making hardware, plus the huge supplies of materials needed to produce and maintain them. Practically every type of business would feel the economic blow.

Jobs of some 6.5 million workers in the armed forces, in government defense agencies and in defense - producing industries would be jeopardized.

Areas with heavily defense-oriented economies naturally would be hit hardest but no sector of the country could expect to be spared. The effect on the stock market and financial values would be awesome.

Big Void To Fill

How quickly and successfully the void could be filled would depend largely on the wisdom and determination of the nation's leaders and individual citizens.

All this has been under study for some time by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, which says:

"Even general and complete disarmament could not provide more than a part of the resources that would be needed to satisfy our unmet civilian needs—these needs are far greater than our defense effort."

"The basic problem for the United States in the event of disarmament is not one of an excess of human and physical resources, but of how we can most quickly and efficiently shift the released resources to serving our numerous and extensive civilian requirements."

Heavy defense expenditures obviously have caused the nation to put off many worthwhile projects which, unlike armament production, would advance the material, cultural and spiritual status of a fast - growing population. The arms control agency has worked up a list of such projects.

For example, the agency estimates that to educate children already born, without improving present standards of instruction, will require total annual expenditures by 1970 about double present school costs. It says advancing technology also requires billions more for studies not included in the usual school fare today.

It lists billions needed for expanded and improved housing, urban renewal and mass transportation, public works, resources development, and various health and social requirements. Moreover, it forecasts increased aid to less developed countries abroad once the arms spending burden is lifted.

Better Baking Potato Tested

EAST LANSING (AP)—A bigger and better baking potato, an earlier hothouse tomato and a cherry intended to compete with raisins will be among the Michigan agricultural products previewed by the state's editors and publishers Saturday night.

The all-Michigan dinner, windup of the annual convention of the Michigan Press Association at the Michigan State University Kellogg Center, is a traditional proving ground for new items.

The Agriculture Department and growers and producers cooperate to suggest the menu for the dinner and provide gift bags filled entirely with Michigan products.

The new Arenac potato was developed by Michigan growers as a better baker and more attractive to housewives because of uniform size. The cherry nuggets are dehydrated red tart cherries, intended to be used like raisins in pies, cakes and muffins. The greenhouse-grown tomatoes are an early variety.

Other dinner items will be prime ribs of beef, apple juice, crackers, asparagus spears, cherry pie, radishes, leaf lettuce, pickles, celery, cottage cheese and milk—all from Michigan.

The souvenir programs will be printed on Michigan paper.

The only non-Michigan item will be coffee.

Farm Land Value Rises For Decade

EAST LANSING—If your real estate broker told you 10 years ago that farm land values would continue to climb—he was right. The price has gone up 49 per cent since 1952.

Despite soft spots in the farm economy, land values rose by 4 per cent in the last year. And, the upward trend is expected to continue. That's the prediction of a Michigan State University economist. M. E. Wirth of MSU's Department of Agricultural Economics has found that the farm real estate index has risen every single year since 1940, except for mid-century 1950.

What is the average farm land value in the state? Naturally, it depends on the location. One thing, Wirth notes, is that it's all rising in value. In 1959, the year of the last census, land in the non-metropolitan counties of lower Michigan averaged about $200 per acre. If you were buying in the northern counties of the Lower Peninsula, the average was under the $100 mark, $82 to be precise.

"Market prices of farmland in the urban fringes has generally increased at a faster rate than comparable lands in outlying areas," Wirth observes. This is another way of saying, "If you want to operate a farm, stay away from the cities—unless you want to speculate on land!"

For example, in the last census, value of farmland varied from a high of $947 in Wayne County to $38 in Crawford. High land values and high taxes generally go hand in hand. And taxes add to the farmer's cost-price squeeze.

Despite an exploding suburbia, Wirth found that active farmers continue to dominate the farm land market. "Nearly two-thirds of all transactions during the past year involved people directly in farming at the time of transfer," Wirth notes. About one-half of the sellers were active farmers and slightly less than half of the buyers were already farm owners-operators.

Enlarging the farm is playing an increasingly important part in the sale of farm real estate. Land purchased to increase acreage accounted for more than half of the land transfers during the past year.

Farmers apparently are merely borrowing a page from the book of their city cousins. Here they see mergers, larger plants and volume businesses, designed to benefit from economies of scale.

Thus as more farmers bid for land, the demand will remain high. "This," Wirth concludes, "will likely mean that prices will continue at a high level in 1963, even adding to the upward pressure on land prices."

Baraga School Seeks To Keep Accreditation

BARAGA—The Baraga Township Board of Education has agreed to "pull out all the stops" in efforts to retain accreditation with the North Central Association.

Arthur A. Kujansu, principal, reported that the school has received official warnings for the past two years concerning grossly inadequate physical facilities for the music department. They added that in past years it has been the practice of North Central to issue two consecutive warnings and, if the unsatisfactory conditions are not corrected, the school in question is dropped from the accredited list the third year.

At present, the music program in Baraga High School is conducted in a 10 by 10 foot practice room, which is not sound proof and on the stage of the school gymnasium. A first floor classroom also is used several times a week on a "pinch hit" basis for choral practice.

Juror Qualifies; Perry Mason Fan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A woman was accepted Wednesday for jury duty in Police Court after saying she believed she was qualified because she watched the Defenders and the Perry Mason shows on television.

She told questioners her decisions would not be influenced by the fact that defendants in the Perry Mason series always seem to go free.

Chaplain Rides Missile Range

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (P) —The Rev. Joseph A. Keiper is a space-age circuit riding preacher who travels the longest parish in the world.

For seven years he has been chaplain of the Atlantic Missile Range, carrying the word of God to 1,500 workers who man the range's far-flung island tracking outposts.

"Chaplain Joe," as the men down range call him, doesn't pack a worn Bible in his saddlebag and take to dusty roads on horseback like the circuit preachers of old. Swift Air Force planes ferry him the length of the range—which extends 9,000 miles from Cape Canaveral to Pretoria, South Africa.

He figures he logs nearly 200,000 miles a year in hop-scotching among the dozen missile tracking stations.

"I hold services in mess halls, day rooms, theaters, any place I can," Keiper said.

Keiper is a Methodist but his services are non-denominational. He knows Roman Catholic, Jewish and Protestant theologies so that he can converse with men of all faiths.

"I have some good islands and some bad islands," he said. "Some like Grand Bahama Island have widely scattered bases, making it difficult for the men to gather."

Keiper, former Army chaplain and onetime pastor of a church in Deland, Fla., reported he got the job in 1956 because "industry realized that many of the problems faced by its men are religious in nature."

Pan American World Airways, which manages the Atlantic Missile Range for the Air Force, hired him as industrial chaplain and told him: "We think of you as a man of God, and nobody around here can tell you what to do. You just travel the range, going where God tells you."

So that hush-hush missile tracking work would not interfere, Keiper was given "secret" clearance by the Air Force.

Keiper is friend, adviser, listener and marriage counselor to the missile trackers. He has heard confessions and has baptized on occasion. But he insists that the men make the initial approach in such matters.

Negaunee Student Gets Scholarship

MARQUETTE — Kathryn E. Connors, Negaunee junior, has been selected as the first recipient of the Mitzi Selin memorial scholarship at Northern Michigan College.

Mrs. Selin, former resident of Marquette, was a student at Northern and was active in speech and drama activities at the college and in the community.

The scholarship, established by friends and relatives in memory of Mrs. Selin, will provide an annual award to qualified students, with preference given to those in the speech curriculum.

Crystal Falls Tackles Hospital Expansion Problem

CRYSTAL FALLS—Now that the county hospital proposal appears to be dead, plans will be revived to expand hospital facilities in Crystal Falls, according to action taken Monday by the city commission.

The need for more hospital facilities was evidenced by the large attendance at the commission meeting. The need for action by the commission to correct the present situation from economic and health standpoints was pointed out by Paul Robertson, chairman of the Municipal Hospital Board.

Robertson told of the high rate of occupancy at the hospital, between 80 and 130 per cent during each month of 1962, and pointed out that when a hospital is occupied more than 65 per cent, its effectiveness is impaired. If the situation is not corrected, he said, it is very possible that the Michigan State Department of Health will restrict the hospital to 17 beds, as it was rated at the time of construction.

Patients, he said, come to the hospital from a wide area, including all of the east side communities, Florence, Sagola and Channing and he predicted the situation will not get any better.

The possibility of the Crystal Inn being converted into a home for the aged and the resulting need for additional acute care facilities for these elderly people was reported.

The commission agreed unanimously that immediate action was imperative but what direction it should take was discussed at length.

Russian Fleets Menace To U.S. Tired Of Taxes? Move To Andorra

By The Associated Press

Postmaster General J. Edward Day, defending the practice of appointing postmasters from the ranks of local politicians, told a news conference in Los Angeles "We get many outstanding persons this way."

"Politics is often an excellent background for a postmaster," he added.

Rear Adm. J. C. Clifton, commander of the Naval Air Technical Training Center at Memphis, Tenn., told a civic club there that the Soviet Union, with its vast submarine and fishing fleets, poses a threat to the United States. In time of emergency, he said, the Soviet "could well jam the seaways."

Ruelan Abdulgani, Indonesia's information minister, says a necessary part of life in his country is "the evening meal economy"—that is, skipping breakfast and lunch. In a speech in Jakarta Abdulgani said the average Indonesian worker earns only enough in a month to cover his needs for 10 days.

ANDORRA (AP)—If you seek a home where there are no labor unions, no practicing lawyers, no income taxes, no airplanes and free domestic postage, come to tiny Andorra. But don't expect to become a citizen.

Foreigners seeking a haven from compulsory military service or high taxes can't expect to achieve Andorran nationality simply by marrying one of the country's many attractive dark-eyed girls.

"You can't even win Andorran nationality by birth here," says a man whose family traces back to the earliest settlers.

"Nor can your sons or daughters become full citizens even though you are married to an Andorran national and the children are born here."

"It takes the third generation to make a real Andorran with the right—once he reaches 30 years of age—to vote."

Andorra is an independent country over which Spain and France exercise a protective suzerainty. It dates to 1278. In that era the Spanish count of Urgel and his French countess died without issue, leaving the creation of the Andorran nation under control of the French king and the Spanish bishop of Urgel.

Citizenship may be difficult, but this tiny principality nestled in the high Pyrenees is one of the world's easiest countries to enter. Once a traveler leaves the Spanish customs and police post outside Sao de Urgel in Spain, nothing stops him except the winding mountainous road into Andorra. A sign at the frontier says "control" but there are neither gates nor officials.

Andorra has 191 square miles of territory, contrasted with 62 square miles for Liechtenstein and half a square mile for Monaco. Its population, both citizens and foreign, is 12,000, compared to more than 15,800 in Liechtenstein and more than 20,000 in Monaco.

Technically independent, Andorra submits to considerable control, possibly more economic than political, from both France and Spain. The official language is Catalan, tongue of the northeastern section of Spain. Commercial relations with Spain are close.

Antonio D'Abba designed and built this diesel-powered "Idrobus" (water buss) in which he shuttles commuters anywhere along the river Tiber in Rome.

Tobacco is the main money crop. Andorrans grow a black type priced for cigarettes. Cattle and sheep raising comes next, followed by a substantial industry in processing and selling wood lumber, especially to France.

An almost duty-free nation—an import tax of one to two per cent is the only levy on either imports or exports—attracts thousands of buyers from both Spain and France. An Andorran company operates eight taxi-buses daily between Andorra and Barcelona.

Four Lifers Now Set For Paroles

LANSING (AP) — Gov. George Romney has approved the commutations of sentences for four men serving life terms.

Romney said the commutations were granted on recommendation of the Parole Board. The convicts now are eligible for immediate parole.

One of the commutations was for Francis Nash, 61, who was sentenced 31 years ago for killing a girl. He is expected to work as a caretaker on a farm near Iron River.

Other commutations: Clifford Warren, 41, sentenced in 1940 for shooting a clerk in a Detroit milk depot holdup. He plans to live with his mother in Detroit.

Robert Buckingham, 35, sentenced in 1945 for shooting a service station attendant in a Port Huron robbery. He will live with his brother in Goodells.

Wilson Tolbert, 43, sentenced in 1937 for shooting a police officer during a burglary of a service station in Macomb County. He plans to live with relatives in Reed City.

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP)— Authorities have given up attempts to lure Tippy, a mongrel dog, from the bed of his dead 4-year-old master.

The dog was the only survivor Wednesday of a fire which killed his owner, Hayes Eaton Jr., and the boy's mother, Barbara Eaton, 35. Both suffocated.

Mrs. Eaton's husband, Hayes, a bartender, was at work when the fire broke out in their two-bedroom home.

After the fire, Tippy, jumped up on the boy's bed. He was lured away once but he came back. Repeated efforts by firemen and neighbors to keep him away failed.

GRANDPA CAN'T ADD

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — A 7-year-old boy was trying to persuade his grandfather to help him with an arithmetic problem.

"I could add it up for you but it wouldn't be right," the grandfather said.

"Well," said the youngster, "go ahead and try anyway."

Wisconsin School Bans Salinger Book

EDGERTON, Wis.—The Edgerton school board has removed J. D. Salinger's novel "The Catcher in the Rye" from a high school reading list in response to parents' objections. The book is about the trials of a preparatory schoolboy.

However, it said it would retain five other books which parents claimed were obscene and immoral, on the reading list of the senior English class. These were Aldous Huxley's "Brave New

A green and white flag of the National Safety Council signaling the achievement of a million man hours of work at the three Escanaba plants of Harnischfeger without a lost time accident is flown at the Truck Crane Plant flagstaff. Harnischfeger Is Honored For Plant Safety Record

A green cross flies from the Harnischfeger Corp. plant office flagpole today signifying the achievement of a million safe man hours at Harnischfeger's three Escanaba plants.

Realization of the goal, reached at midnight on Jan. 23, marks the first time it has been hit in the 16 year history of Harnischfeger's Escanaba operations. It is only the third time it has been achieved in the entire 79 year history of the Milwaukee based corporation.

The safety string, which began on July 17, 1962, now extends to 139 consecutive days at the plants. Previous high for Escanaba operations had been 36 consecutive accident-free work days.

"Attainment of this goal," said Plant Manager Raymond Fish, "is a tribute to the safety committee and every Escanaba employee of Harnischfeger Corp. It is an achievement of cooperative effort between labor and supervision. Without the wholehearted support of every employee we never would have reached such an important goal."

"This achievement," Fish said serves to solidify my respect for Harnischfeger employees in Escanaba. It has always been my contention that people who care enough to concern themselves with their fellow employees' safety are the same kind of employees who concern themselves with customer quality."

Safety efforts at Harnischfeger were spearheaded by the safety committee. The committee representing both labor and supervision meets monthly to tour the plants and act on any condition they feel might endanger employee safety. Members of the committee are: Safety Director Martin Proehl, Harold Cook, Durward Chase, Joseph Rademacher, John Pierop and Allen Kidd.

The committee also works to maintain a high rate of employee interest in safe working conditions. A sign at the plant entrance lists the number of consecutive days worked without an accident.

The safety committee at the Escanaba plant of Harnischfeger Corp. has authority to tag any equipment or tools found hazardous to employee safety and when tagged, such equipment cannot be operated again until all possibility of hazard that it creates has been corrected.

The plant safety committee is composed of three supervisory employees and three representatives of Local 632 of the United Auto Workers-CIO. The safety campaign in the truck crane plants and the welder plant here has used posters and other familiar techniques of education but heaviest reliance has been upon personal contacts, upon talking safety.

Safety workers said that as the plants' safety record built after last July a spirit like that which is created by a winning streak in athletics was generated and an unprecedented accent on safety was achieved. The safety record is that of an average 900 employees.

State Employees Meet Saturday

All state employees in the Delta area are invited to the annual joint dinner meeting of the local unit of the Michigan State Employees Association and the State Employees Credit Union Saturday evening at Marco's. The dinner and program and election of officers of the credit union will follow a social hour starting at 6 p.m.

William Cook, president of the Michigan State Employees Association, will address the gathering, expected to number more than 200, on what the proposed new state constitution to be voted April 1 holds for state employees.

Dancing will follow the dinner program. Leo Rahoi, State Highway Department engineer, is president of the Delta Chapter of the MSEA.

There was some relief from the bruising cold wave in Michigan and the Escanaba area today but the slight relief will be only brief.

The low last night in Escanaba was -9 after a high of 11 above on Thursday. The Weather Bureau reported. It will be not so cold on Saturday with a high of near 14, but it will turn colder again and partly cloudy on Sunday.

With temperatures still hugging the zero area, the U.S. Weather Bureau predicted a continuance of the stubborn cold into next mid-week.

Forecasters said temperatures for the next five days will average 13 to 17 degrees below normal in Southern Michigan and 13 to 18 below normal in the Upper Peninsula.

Coldest readings today included 18 below in Alpena and 13 below in Pellston and 8 below at Sault Ste. Marie.

Detroit, where 13 below Thursday was the coldest in 29 years, had zero.

Elected member at large was Ray Mayotte; and named to the credit committee were Robert Snow, Mrs. Ray DeGrand and Francis D'Amour.

The credit union has declared a 4 per cent dividend for 1962.

Orbital Flight May Be April 2

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. may begin his orbital flight—the longest and perhaps the last in Project Mercury—on April 2.

The Air Force major may remain aloft for 18 orbits—about 27 hours—and come down in the Atlantic north of Puerto Rico. Or, if all goes well, he may achieve 22 orbits—about 34 hours—and descend into the Pacific near Midway Island.

The Mercury series is to be followed by two-man Gemini launches starting early next year. They are preliminary to later three-man Apollo craft missions to the moon.

Cooper's flight may not be the Mercury finale. There has been some discussion of modifying a Mercury capsule to make it capable of supporting a man for a three to five day flight later this year.

Physicians expect Cooper to sleep in two four-hour installments—one eight to 10 hours after launch, and again after another working shift of eight to 10 hours.

Hatful Of Air Saves Workman Buried In Ditch

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A workman, buried 15 minutes under four feet of earth, saved his life with a hatful of air.

Leonard Murillo, 39, was working at the bottom of a flood-control trench Thursday when co-workers yelled that the side was collapsing.

Murillo pressed himself against the opposite side of the ditch and clapped his hard metal hat over his mouth.

A dozen men dug Murillo out and firemen administered oxygen. Murillo was shaken but otherwise appeared unharmed.

Beaten With Belt, Boy, 3, Found Dead

GRAND RAPIDS (AP)—An autopsy has been ordered into the death of a 3-year-old boy who police say had been beaten with a belt.

Kent County sheriff's deputies say the child's mother, Mrs. Gerard F. Mankel, 24, admits she beat her son, Shawn, last Wednesday when he misbehaved.

The father found the boy dead today in his bed.

Sheriff Arnold Pigors and Assistant Prosecutor Roger Boer ordered mental examination of the mother.

Hanging Faced By 14 Hindus

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Fourteen upper caste Hindus have been sentenced to hang and 21 others jailed for life for rioting against untouchables in a village near Indore City.

The riot occurred last Sept. 4 when the untouchables—members of the lowest Hindu caste—tried to exercise their legal right to worship at a temple from which religious tradition had barred them for centuries. Four untouchables were killed and 18 others seriously injured.

No One Injured As Train Hits Bus Near Jackson

JACKSON (AP)—A school bus with 76 students on board stalled on a railroad crossing today, but the driver had the bus emptied minutes before a train sheared off its front end.

Bus driver William Trumble, who makes the regular run between Western High School and students' homes to the west of Jackson, said 10 minutes elapsed between the stall and the crash. He told Western School System Superintendent Hal Hilmer that the junior high and high school students filed off the bus calmly, in line with drills they had been through on the school grounds.

The accident was where the New York Central tracks cross Glasgow Road, about three miles west of Jackson. The passenger train, eastbound, reported no injuries.

Trumble said he marched the students more than a block away from the crossing and then ran back to try to flag the train, but there was not enough time.

Detroit Parishes To Help Resettle Cuban Families

DETROIT (AP)—The 309 parishes of the eight-county Archdiocese of Detroit have been asked to help resettle Roman Catholic Cuban refugees in the Detroit area.

The Most Rev. John F. Dearden, archbishop of Detroit, has written each of the parishes.

The archbishop "has asked pastors to do what they could to work toward resettling of families because of the large number needing resettlement," said the Rev. Father Ronald L. Heidelberg, director of the Catholic Charities Immigration Services.

"Everything will be up to the parish, to do what they can in their own way," said Father Heidelberg. He estimated 100,000 Cubans remain to be resettled in the United States. Some 50,000 have already been resettled, he said.

Court Ends Hopes To Release Funds For Wildlife Aid

LANSING (AP)—Michigan conservation officials have expressed regrets over the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to review a case under which they sought to restore a former method of determining federal wildlife aid grants under the Pittman-Robertson Act.

Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and Colorado jointly had appeared on grounds that the method in use prior to 1959, under which federal aid to state wildlife programs was allotted on the basis of individual hunting license holders, was illegal.

The High Court decision ended hopes for the release of about $450,000 in federal funds withheld from Michigan since 1959. It will also mean the state has to take an annual cut of about $100,000 to $125,000 a year in federal funds.

* Members, following lunch will hear Dr. Lynn M. Barlett, Michigan superintendent of public instruction, Lansing, and Dr. Edgar L. Harden, president of Northern.

TYLER, Tex. (AP)—Billie Sol Estes, the bankrupt promoter whose downfall led to congressional probes, received an eight-year prison sentence Thursday.

Dist. Court Judge Otis T. Dunagan sentenced Estes on swindling charges after denying a defense motion for a new trial.

Lawyers for Estes gave immediate notice of appeal. Estes remained free under $5,000 bond posted by his father and a brother.

Estes is under $130,000 bond in other criminal cases, both state and federal.

Housewife Says She'll Win Bet, 8 Days In Woods

CLARE (AP)—With just one day left to go, Mrs. Lavina Radabaugh was confident today she'd complete her eight days alone in a cold woods and win $150.

"I can make it the rest of the way easily," said the hearty, 47-year-old Wayne housewife.

Mrs. Radabaugh, equipped with pup tent, sleeping bag and provisions, has been in the woods since last Friday. At one time the mercury went to an official 30 below zero.

When she comes out Saturday, Mrs. Radabaugh is to get $150 as winner of a prize from the Clare Chamber of Commerce.

She had said she could do as well as a mere man who stayed in the woods eight days last year in the chamber's promotion of a winter sports festival. The chamber took her up on it for this year's festival.

Legislators Take Recess; Bills Go To Committees

that his campaign literature, by using the word "re-elect," had violated election laws. He faces trial next month.

Cleanup Needed

Rep. Henry Hogan, R-Birmingham, the committee chairman, said the Walton investigation indicated that Wayne County election practices need some "cleaning up."

"It's obvious that some things happen in Wayne County that are just not ethical," said Hogan, adding that outstate areas did not have the same problem in elections.

A sales tax rebate for retired people and barring of discrimination in employment because of age were proposed today in bills filed for introduction in the House.

Both were among a series of measures to be introduced by Rep. Edward Michalski, D-Detroit.

In one, he called for a rebate on sales taxes paid by men over 65 and women over 62 who have retirement incomes of less than $3,000 a year.

The rebate would be based on sales taxes paid on purchases up to $1,000 for single retired persons and $1,800 for married retirees.

Open To Public

Michalski said under present law this would bring a maximum of $72 for a couple and $40 for the single person, adding that this is "much less than the tax most retirees pay on just sales alone."

Michalski's other bill would extend the jurisdiction of the Fair Employment Practices Act to include a bar against employment discrimination based on age.

A rule change that would open meetings of all standing committees to the public and the press is under consideration by the House Rules and Resolutions Committee.

The proposed rule was introduced Thursday by Reps. Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, and Joseph Gillis, D-Detroit, who said "the public has a right to know what we're doing in committees."

At present, committee meetings frequently are closed and the vote on whether to report a bill out favorably or kill it are usually secret.

Gillis pointed out that the proposed rule is in line with a provision of the proposed Constitution in that it would also require a recorded roll call vote on any action.

The Kowalski - Gillis proposal also would require each committee to maintain a journal of its proceedings and a calendar, which would be available to the public and the press.

In addition, it would specify that committee meetings could be called by a majority of the members or ordered by the House.

At present, committee meetings are called by the chairman.

University Shies At Research Plan

MADISON, Wis.—The University of Wisconsin faculty has agreed to cooperate in a proposed new "research park" near the campus, but said the park should be manned and set up by private industry.

U. W. President Fred Harrington earlier rejected a proposal by the State Department of Resource Development that the state set up the park and use university researchers to begin initial work.

The faculty, which followed Harrington's line, said "The purpose of this facility would be to provide applied engineering service and testing principally to small companies which could not support such staff and facilities on their own."

Street Workman Killed; Hit-Run Driver Escapes

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A hit-and-run car crashed through a downtown street barricade and hit three workmen, killing one of them Thursday night.

A fourth workman jumped into the car and struggled with the driver till the car stopped a block away. The driver fled on foot.

Police said the car was registered in one man's name and the license plate in another.

Four men were cutting a hole in the pavement (at Oak and Truman Roads) to lay a telephone conduit when the car hit the barricade.

Jesse Francis Blankinship, 35, was killed. The other two were injured but both were in satisfactory condition.

Thomas Williams, 21, said the driver stopped.

"I opened the car door and told him to park it and he said, 'I will' and then he whopped on the footfede and took off."

Williams jumped into the car and stopped it after wrestling with the driver.

News Session Tells Need For Western Unity

ference Thursday that such an argument "is inaccurate" and not really in the interest of the Western alliance. He declared that the United States has "never had the slightest doubt that Gen. de Gaulle would respond to the needs of the alliance," and added sharply:

"I would hope that our confidence in him would be matched by his confidence in us."

Kennedy said that although everyone might not believe in the U.S. commitment to defend Europe, "I believe that Chairman Khrushchev does, and I think he is right."

To some at the news conference, Kennedy seemed to display indignation as he asserted that the United States would "defend Europe by whatever means are necessary." Informants said later that the President was deeply irritated by the argument which De Gaulle had made at a Paris news conference last week in support of his decision that France must go on building its own nuclear weapons force.

New NATO Team

In defiance of De Gaulle's stand for a French national nuclear force, Kennedy announced immediately following his news conference the formation of a high-powered diplomatic-military team to prepare proposals for a North Atlantic Treaty Organization nuclear force and to negotiate with allied governments in Europe. The White House said that French officials as well as others would be consulted.

To head the task force Kennedy called Ambassador Livingston T. Merchant out of retirement. Merchant is a former undersecretary of state in the Eisenhower administration and a career diplomat highly regarded in Western Europe.

To work with him as his chief assistants, Kennedy named Gerard C. Smith, former assistant secretary of state for policy planning in the Eisenhower administration, and Rear Adm. John M. Lee of the Defense Department. Smith and Lee participated in a mission which consulted with allied leaders last year on the problems of forming the NATO nuclear force.

Allegan County Is Exempt From Sunday Closing Law

Allegan County last week became the second county in Michigan to be exempted from the Sunday Closing Law enacted by the Legislature last year.

The county board of supervisors voted 31 to 6 to exempt the county under a provision included in the law which requires business houses to close down one day a week. The law is scheduled to go into effect late in March in all counties except those exempted through a vote of their supervisors.

Huron County supervisors at Bad Axe took similar action earlier this month. The matter will undoubtedly be brought before the Delta County Board of Supervisors in the near future.

The engagement of their daughter, Judith Ann, to Max Edward Peterson is announced by Mr. and Mrs. Norman A. Aasen of Rapid River. The future bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Peterson, also of Rapid River. At present she is a graduate student in the School of Social Service Administration at the University of Chicago, working on her master's. Mr. Peterson, a graduate of Gladstone High School and of Augustana College, Rockford, Ill., is a graduate student at the University of Minnesota, where he will receive his M. A. in Physical Education. His fraternity is Omicron Sigma. A summer wedding is planned. (Ridings Photo)

Kooky Coiffure Won't Harm Hair

The young ladies nowadays—sometimes their mothers, too—are showing up at the office, at school or at a party with a variety of elaborate new hair styles that the men often find somewhat babbling.

Most of the new puffed up hairdos depend on roughing, back-combing or teasing the hair to give added body to the newest style. Some other names for these techniques are ruffling and lacing.

Today's Health, the magazine of the American Medical Association, reports that roughing or back-combing does not damage the hair if it is done properly and if the hair is in good condition; that is, if it is naturally lustrous and the fibers are strong and springy.

However, these operations should be carried out gently and not too frequently. This will avoid roughening of the hair fiber's surface and undue tangling, especially on dry, brittle or easy-to-break hair.

These operations tend to tangle the hair quite badly. Tangled hair is difficult to comb, and somewhat greater than normal fiber breakage may occur unless care is exercised.

And when milady tires of the puffed up hair-do and decides to return to normal, begin combing at the ends and then gradually progress toward the scalp to remove the tangles by gentle combing. Actually, brushing is more effective than combing for removing the tangles and is easier on the hair.

If your teen-age daughter turns up one day with what the parents believe is an absurd hair-do, or a dye-job in unnatural colors, don't worry about it. The new hair that grows out from the roots will still be daughter's own normal hair and the new style will go away with time.

Ann Landers

Wacky Women?

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the woman who yelled bloody murder because her husband leaned on the wallpaper and left grease spots was the last straw. Are the females in America having a mass nervous breakdown? It's no wonder the divorce rate is going through the roof.

A wife in Philadelphia can't stand her husband because he squeezes the toothpaste tube in the middle. A woman in California doesn't want to iron bedsheets. A loon in Kentucky won't let her husband smoke a cigar in the house. Another crazy dame wants to strap a bicycle horn on her husband's head at night so it will wake him up when he snores. Still another nut wants to know what to wear to her husband's funeral — and he isn't even dead yet.

I'm convinced that the real trouble-makers in this world are the wacky women. All a person has to do is read your column for a week and he can get plenty of evidence. — R. D.

Dear R. D.: Men have been complaining about women from the beginning of time and they continue to marry them. If you can think of a better combination I'll buy it.

Dear Ann Landers: When my husband and I are with adults he speaks openly about how much things cost and is not the least bit reluctant to admit we can't afford certain things. I feel is perfectly all right as most of our friends are in the same boat and we share similar economic problems.

I believe, however, that my husband should not make our children feel underprivileged by telling them we can't afford to buy things which their friends have. Isn't it better to try to interest them in substitute toys? Or perhaps get them two inexpensive items in the place of one which is costly?

I keep telling him they will find out soon enough that life is cruel and full of inequities. Youngsters should not carry this burden. Am I right? — FRANCES

Dear Francine: You're wrong. Where did you get the notion that it's harmful for children to hear the words "No, we can't afford it." If more people used this phrase instead of hocking their eyeballs to please their kids, they'd be better off. Parents who spend time with their children and give them love and attention needn't be concerned about the youngsters feeling "underprivileged." They are the lucky ones who grow up straight and strong.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a high school senior who wants to ask a question that has been bugging me. Why do teens who were going steady write after they break up and ask how to get back into circulation?

In our high school, and it's a pretty big one, everyone knows within the hour who the break-ups are. The news spreads like a forest fire and both kids are automatically back in circulation. So what's the problem? — DEEDEE

Dear Deedee: I don't know what goes on in your school, Buttercup, but most teenagers who write after the Big Breakup do want to know how to get back into circulation. These kids long to be part of the group, which they have ignored, and they don't know how to manage it. So they write to Mother Landers.

Driver Involved In Auto Mishap

State Police of the Gladstone Post report that a Rte. 1, Gladstone man, Louis A. Skoglund, 28, was involved in two automobile accidents on County Road 426 early today.

Officers said that at 1:30 a. m., Skoglund was headed northwest on County Road 426 just west of U. S. 2-41, when his car went out of control and struck a county road sign knocking it down. He told police he lost control of his car when he swerved to avoid an oncoming car. No tickets were issued.

At 2:40 a. m., Skoglund, again headed northwest, sideswiped a car owned by Edward Bertrand Jr., 19, of 1602 11th Ave. S., which was parked partially on the right side of the roadway without lights. The mishap occurred on County Road 426 about one mile southeast of County Road 416.

Skoglund told officers that he didn't see the car until it was too late to avoid the accident. Bertrand was ticketed for improper parking and Skoglund for violation of the basic speed law, too fast for conditions. Damage to the cars was minor and no one was injured.

The lady who waits can be pretty as a picture. Maternity fashions for the holidays are real charmers. Sleeveless and chic, this one-piece dress is in black and pale beige (left). Jacket of frankly fake broadtail (center) is worn over slender dress with draw-

Making his first appearance as third man in the ring at the 21st annual U.P. Golden Gloves tournament Saturday night at Holy Name will be Jack Phillips of Manistique. Phillips learned his boxing under Ed Toyra, the former outstanding Manistique mitt coach, trained Manistique Jaycee fighters for about five years, retiring a year ago after guiding a dozen young scrappers to Upper Peninsula and Wisconsin championships.

Phillips will share the refereeing duties with veteran Miles Betts of Marquette. In the Upper Peninsula tournament, the referee does not vote on the outcome of the bouts. U.P. boxing officials use three judges at ringside to select the winners, feeling that the referee can turn in a better job in the ring if he does not have the added responsibility of selecting the winners.

Judges serving again this year will be Dewey Meunier of Escanaba, George Hurley and George Altman of Marquette. Other officials at ringside will be Brother Felix of Holy Name, timekeeper, and Lee Nord of Escanaba, knockdown counter.

Menominee's Ralph Brown continues to astound bowling fans in the Upper Peninsula. The 52-year-old pin artist, who tips the scales at only 125 pounds, went on another strike rampage this week. He smashed out a 759 series, including a 299 game, at the Silver Dome lanes. In his final game he rolled 11 straight strikes before leaving the 4-pin on his final ball. It was his sixth national honor count this season.

Split pickers: Virginia Fredrick 7-8-10, Bonnie Versailles 5-10, Joyce Johnson 4-6-10.

The Bessemer Speed Boys snapped a three game tailspin in the Michigan-Wisconsin Conference this week with a 59-55 comeback victory over Superior East. Brian Mattison scored on a layup with 31 seconds to go for Bessemer's slim margin. Hurley moved up to second place behind league leading Ironwood by downing Wakefield 66-50. Wakefield was tied with Ironwood two weeks ago but the Cardinals have lost their last two starts.

Although Coach Don Hill's Hermansville cagers were edged by Felch 79-77 in their last start, the Redskins have fashioned a fabulous record in recent years. Extending back through the 1961 season, Hermansville has won 44 of its last 52 starts.

The most fantastic coaching record in the U.P., however, belongs to former Escanaba athlete Fred Boddy at Champion. His Indians won 22 straight before bowing to Brimley in the state quarterfinals last season and have won 10 straight this year to give Boddy an overall record of 32-1.

Clay Calls Shot; Powell Hits Deck In Third Round

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chirping "I'm the greatest" after easily disposing of Charley Powell in the round he called, irrepressible Cassius Clay offered to fight two boxers in one night "and get it over with."

Clay, the sport's 21-year-old prognosticating poet, referred Thursday night to his next heavyweight fight with Doug Jones and a possible rematch after that with Billy Daniels.

He had just finished playing punching bag with Powell's head by knocking him out at 2 minutes, 4 seconds of the third round and was chattering incessantly. The victory was his 17th straight without a loss and his 14th by knockout.

"Jones must fall in six," Cassius predicted about his March 13 fight in New York's Madison Square Garden. "Daniels must fall in two. I'd like to fight Daniels and Jones in one night and get it over with."

Clay's ambition is to become the youngest heavyweight champion in boxing history by beating Sonny Liston by next November.

"I'm ready for Liston tomorrow," he said. "Liston isn't as fast and as tough as Powell. My managers and Liston are the only things keeping me from him."

One member of Clay's board of directors, William Cutchins, said Clay is "a year or so" away from fighting for the title.

The Louisville Lip, his own label, unabashedly praised himself as he discussed his latest victory and his future.

"I'm making history calling all those rounds," he boasted. "No other fighter does that. I'm the prophet of the fight game."

He told of the circumstances that led to his 13th correct prediction witnessed by 11,238 who paid $55.782.

"That big monkey was rough," he said of the 28-year-old Powell, a former pro football player from Los Angeles. "They couldn't call him a pushover. He was hitting and moving fast. He was hoping he'd tag me with one good punch and end it."

"He kept saying, 'C'mon, sissy, you're not hitting hard enough. C'mon, big mouth, you've been talking. Now let's do it. This is the third? I didn't pay any attention. I said, 'Just be cool. It's coming.'"

"You see how when the third round came, he got in that corner. He looked wary. He was cautious. I'd be hollering 'Three, three, three,' and he was waiting for that. I shook him with a jab and three left hooks. I was working on seven, but he didn't stand up long enough."

In contrast to Powell, who suffered a deep gash over his left eye, Clay was unmarked and free of sweat.

"I'm so pretty," Clay concluded. "Let me get dressed. I have some pretty girls waiting for me outside."

Big Ten Quints Return To Action

By The Associated Press

Illinois' test with the top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats in a prestige game at Chicago Stadium heads the Big Ten basketball card Saturday.

The meeting between the No. 3 Illinois (12-1) and Cincinnati unbeaten in 32 games and National Collegiate champion the last two years is the highlight of a stadium doubleheader expected to attract nearly 20,000 fans. No. 2 Loyola of Chicago faces Santa Clara in the opener.

Only two conference games are on tap with Purdue (0-4) in league play at Northwestern (0-3) for an afternoon televised engagement and Michigan State (2-2) at Minnesota (3-1) at night.

In non-league action, St. John's is at Wisconsin in the afternoon with DePaul at Indiana and Creighton at Ohio State at night.

Nahma Nips Perkins To Take First Place

NAHMA — The Nahma Arrows climbed into first place in the Central League basketball race Thursday night when they edged the Perkins Yellowjackets 72-70 in a thriller before a packed house.

Coach Owen Peterson's Arrows extended their victory string to seven games and took over the league lead with a 7-2 record. They are 9-2 overall for the season.

The setback was Perkins' third against eight victories in the league, dropping the Yellowjackets to third place.

The game was highlighted by a spectacular individual scoring duel between Melvin LaCosse of Perkins and Pat Groleau of Nahma, two of the top point producers in the Upper Peninsula.

LaCosse was a terror on the court, shooting from all angles, driving and stealing the ball and hustling from the opening tipoff to the final buzzer. He came out on top in the scoring department with 16 field goals and six free throws for 38 points. That boosted his season total to 349 in 12 games.

Groleau, a 6-5 junior pivtoman, laced in a dozen field goals and added 11 gift shots for 35 points, just a point over his season average. Groleau now has 375 points in 11 games.

The season's largest crowd at the Nahma gym saw the Arrows move out to a 19-16 lead over Perkins in the first period. Coach Joe Vestich's 'Jackets closed the gap early in the second period but the Arrows took the halftime intermission with a 37-33 cushion.

The pattern was repeated in the third period with Perkins climbing into a tie midway in the frame but Nahma regained a 59-

52 lead entering the fourth quarter.

Perkins made its victory bid in the final period, outscoring Nahma 18-13 down the stretch.

With the Arrows leading 70-68 in the closing minute of the game, Groleau pumped in two free throws for the Arrows to make it 72-68. Seconds later, LaCosse hit the bucket with a field goal to make it 72-70. The Yellowjackets got one more shot in the game, but missed and Nahma held the ball for the final 15 seconds.

Dick Feathers and Arlen Pomeroy contributed 10 points apiece for the Arrows. Don Johnson added eight and Bill Labadie and Terry Larscheid combined for nine.

Dick Demeuse, playing his final game for Perkins, tallied 13 points before fouling out in the fourth quarter. He will graduate at the close of the semester this week. Len Gustafson contributed eight points, Jim Branstrom six and Gary Robbins five to round out the Perkins scoring.

Perkins outrebounded the Arrows 48 to 35 and Groleau was held to 18 recoveries by the hard working 'Jackets.

Perkins won the jayvee preliminary game 53-16.

Uelses Cleared For Track Meets

NEW YORK (AP)—John Uelses, the first man to clear 16 feet in the pole vault, has regained his good standing with the Amateur Athletic Union and is cleared for competition in the Boston A.A. Games Saturday.

Uelses, a former Marine who now attends LaSalle College, cleared 16 feet 1/4 inch in the Millrose Games a year ago.

He was under suspension by the AAU for expense account irregularities. Capt. Stephen Archer, AAU secretary, announced Thursday that Uelses has been cleared for the next three major meets on the winter indoor season, the Boston A.A., the Millrose Games next week and the Philadelphia Inquirer meet Feb. 2.

Warriors Whip Piston Cagers

By The Associated Press

Will Chamberlain and Bob Ferry were on their good behavior Thursday night as the San Francisco Warriors beat the Detroit Pistons 138-114 and ended a 4-game losing streak in the National Basketball Association.

Chamberlain, 7-foot-1, 250-pound star of the Warriors and Ferry, 6-8, 230 of Detroit, had come to blows in the Warriors-Pistons game Tuesday. Afterwards Dick McGuire, Detroit coach, said "no grudges will probably be held" and it turned out he was right.

Boston snapped St. Louis' 6-game winning streak by beating the Hawks 111-109 in the other NBA game scheduled Thursday. The game was played in Providence and the crowd of 7,238 was the largest ever to see a basketball game in that Rhode Island city.

The San Francisco-Detroit game also was played on a neutral court in Bakersfield, Calif. and the turn-out of 2,162 saw Chamberlain, NBA's leading scorer, tally 58 points on 25 field goals and 8 of 11 free throws. The former Kansas All-America was given an ovation when he left with 5 minutes to play and the Warriors far ahead. Bailey Howell topped Detroit with 32 points.

Football Ironman Calls It Quits

CRANFORD, N.J. (AP)—Football's iron man has called it quits.

Ray Wietecha, who compiled a record of durability as amazing as any in sports, announced his retirement earlier this week to join the Los Angeles Rams as offensive line coach.

In nine seasons as the Giants' center, the 34-year-old Wietecha missed only one offensive play.

"That's the record I like," Wietecha said at his soon to be sold split-level home here. "As for the string of 133 straight games, anyone can play in a lot of consecutive games. If you get in for one play you've been in the game."

Actually, Wietecha spent 10 years with the Giants. In 1953 he divided his time between the specialty teams for kickoffs and punt returns and replacing linebacker John Cannaday.

"I went in for Cannaday when the other side started passing a lot," the 6-foot-1, 230 pound Wietecha said. "I was 195 pounds and a lot faster in those days."

Wietecha said he approached Rams Coach Harlan (Swede) Sware at the recent Pro Bowl game in Los Angeles and asked for a job. They were roommates for five years when Sware played with the Giants.

Wietecha's decision to retire was prompted by "enough aches and bruises."

"Retiring as an active player, though, was not the big decision," he said. "I'd thought about it for the last couple of years, but I wanted to do something I liked. The big decision was leaving everything I have here—a CBS radio job, the house, the friends we've made, all the fans I've made in New York."

Crimson Satan 6-5 Favorite

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Crimson Satan, a race horse known as a rogue in the sport, shaped up today as the short-priced favorite to win the inaugural $100,000-added Charles H. Strub Stakes at Santa Anita Park Saturday.

The star of the Crimson King Farm was listed as a 6-5 choice in the preliminary odds posted at the track as a bulky figure of 16 was named for the 1/4-mile attraction.

Twice in 1962 Crimson Satan had his number pulled down in major stakes, once for unruly racing manners. But he appeared quite polished when he won the $50,000-added San Fernando Stakes here Jan. 12.

His rivals Saturday include Decidedly, the upset winner of the 1962 Kentucky Derby and nothing of major importance since.

Bearcats Face Ranked Illini

By The Associated Press

College basketball begins to move out of the semester exam doldrums tonight and returns to full scale activity Saturday with a schedule spiced by the top-ranking doubleheader of the season. That one has Cincinnati, ranked first in the nation, going against third-ranked Illinois in the nightcap. Second-ranked Loyola of Chicago plays Santa Clara in the first of the twin bill at Chicago.

Cincinnati, two-time NCAA champ and unbeaten in 14 games this season, faces probably its biggest threat of the season in the Illini, holders of a 12-1 record. It was Illinois which called an official halt to the longest winning string in collegiate history, the 60 marked up by San Francisco in 1954-56 during the Bill Russell-K. C. Jones era.

Cincinnati now holds the longest current string, 32, and is closing in on the second longest in history for a major school, 37 by North Carolina in the 1957 and 1958 seasons.

High-scoring Loyola of Chicago is a top-heavy favorite to rank up its 18th straight victory at the expense of Santa Clara, 8-5 for the season, in the opener.

In major games Thursday night Miami, Fla., edged Houston 71-70 in a clash of major independents, Oklahoma City blasted Baylor 78-55, Canisius romped over Connecticut 76-65, Jacksonville, Fla., whipped St. Peter's, N.J., 105-81, and Gonzaga beat Montana State 61-52.

Par Shattered In 'Frisco Open

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—A traffic jam of 23 par busting pros by Pennsylvania Art Wall and Texas youngster Jacky Cupit had turned the $50,000 San Francisco open into a wide open affair over Harding Park's bumpy greens as they went into the second round today.

Wall, 39, eagled his final hole to come in with a big smile as he and Cupit, 24, from Longview in the East Texas oil fields, took advantage of bright, sunny weather to shoot pace setting 67s, four under par.

Cupit touched up his first round card with four birdies. Only one stroke back of the leaders at 68 were Charlie Sifford, Phil Rodgers, Bobby Nichols, Dick Mayer and a young University of Texas graduate, Terry Dill.

Grouped at 69 for the first of four rounds in this 72-hole tourney were Bud Holscher, Wes Ellis, Jr., George Knudson, Gardner Dickinson, Jr., Miller Barber, Buster Cupit (brother of Jacky), last week's Crosby winner Billy Casper and Jack Bissinger.

U.S. Open titlist Jack Nicklaus came up with a painful play which impeded his hitting. He took a 76. South African Gary Player flew into San Francisco at 3 a.m. Thursday, only hours before teeing off, and shot a so-so 74. He said he was just plain travel weary.

Last year's winner, Gene Littler, toured Harding in a one under 70.

Legals

Clark (the premium people) get together with Du Pont (the chemical people) to see to it that your car starts this Winter.

Two serious things can go wrong with your car when it's cold outside. Ice can form in the fuel line and prevent the gasoline from getting to the carburetor. That's called fuel line freeze-up. It's why you can't start.

Or moisture can freeze along the inside walls of the carburetor itself. That's called carburetor icing. That's why you stall.

Whose research laboratories were good enough to lick both problems? DuPont's. A great DuPont Anti-icer makes it virtually impossible for moisture in the fuel line to turn to ice, no matter how cold it is outside. Good-by fuel line freeze-ups.

And DuPont's DMA-4 coats the carburetor walls so moisture can never cling (and freeze) again. Good-by carburetor icing.

Blend these excellent additives with one of the best premium gasolines made (99.6 octane; always among the highest according to Ethyl Corporation studies) and you've got what Clark, the premium people, sell all Winter long.

Yet because Clark makes only one grade, it costs 2¢ less than other major premiums. (And Clark includes the DuPont cold weather additives for free.)

Do you know what some automotive experts say privately? They say: You have to own your own oil company, not to buy Clark
